My child feels isolated	My child feels anxious	My child lacks confidence or aspirations	My child struggles with friendships
My child has emotional barriers to learning	My child is disruptive at home / school	Significant changes at home are impacting on my child

Some families may need help at times of particular stress, e.g. separation, illness or bereavement

How the Home School Links worker can help?

The Home School Links Worker is a Specialist Support Practitioner who is trained to work with children and their families where there are concerns about a child's emotional well-being or behaviour.

We aim to work closely with children, their parents and their School, using positive communication to enable them to recover from trauma, family difficulties and any new challenges.

We will help them develop their coping strategies, improve self-worth and build resilience.

This can either be through individual work with children or small group work.

What we offer:

- Weekly one to one sessions with children in school, or:
- Small group work around: Friendships, social skills and building self-esteem
- Sessions are filled with play-based activities - games / arts / crafts / drama / physical games, to encourage interaction and relationship building
- Support for parents and carers
- Support for school staff
- Referrals to other appropriate agencies
- Opportunities to take part in additional Jigsaw4u positive activities
